From December 7th to 13th, 2024, we were invited to set up an environmental stall at Damodar Mela, one of Howrah's largest fairs, to promote wetland and Fishing Cat conservation. The stall served as an interactive platform to raise awareness about the importance of wetlands and the need to protect this vulnerable species.

Many organizations along with the organizations collaborating with us for the Environmental Film Screening Campaign generously contributed their souvenir materials, including informative pamphlets, posters, booklets, books, bio-degradable jewellerys, bio-degradable seed pen & pencil, bamboo brush, earthen water bottle, genuine organic honey of Sundarbans from my ends and many more. These materials were distributed to visitors, offering insights into wetland ecosystems, Fishing Cat habitat preservation, and sustainable practices to mitigate human-wildlife conflict.

AN ADVENTURE & NATURAL HISTORY PRODUCTION UNIT

To foster a sense of involvement and enthusiasm, we distributed pamphlets, stickers, and posters with information on fishing cats to every student and teacher. This provided essential context about the Fishing Cat and the unprotected wetland ecosystems, laying the groundwork for deeper engagement.

The students showed remarkable interest and excitement, especially during the film screening. Their involvement extended beyond, as they eagerly participated in the interactive session, asking insightful questions and demonstrating a strong commitment to environmental conservation.

A significant highlight of the event was the collective oath taken by students, teachers, and our team, pledging to protect the wetlands and safeguard the Fishing Cat's future. To honour the college's participation and their invaluable role in hosting such an important event, we presented the institution with a certificate and a commemorative memento.

This event, marked by active participation and enthusiasm, strengthened the community's awareness and commitment to conservation, leaving a lasting impact on all who attended.
